Report of Secretary Chandler—Pig Iron Reduction Big Colorado Fire—Other Items.

French Affairs.

CHICAGO, December 5.—Edmond Carrey, who for many years held the post of French Consul in Chicago, has been appointed by the French government Consul in San Francisco. He arrived here this morning, from France, en route for San Francisco. Talking of French affairs, Carrey said the republic is securely anchored, and no other system of government can ever prevail again in France. At the same time he thinks too frequent changes of the cabinet is a feature of the government that might be removed with advantage. The Chinese war, he says, is by no means popular in France, but for all that it will be pushed on and France will retain all her possessions there and get indemnity from China for the expenses of the war too. Mr. Carrey has brought his family with him to America, and after remaining in Chicago a few days he will proceed to his new home.

Pig Iron Production.

PITTSBURGH, December 5.—The project to restrict the production of pig iron by banking the furnaces for a month or more has been allowed to die quietly. Instead of further restriction, reports received at the office of the Pig Iron Association this city, are to the effect that a number of furnaces will show in the next month. In view of the complaints of the fall in trade and the low price, the resumption of work seems paradoxical, but it is stated that the stocks on hand are much lighter now than at any previous time for years, and that while there is no prospect in the immediate future for better prices, there is room for more iron than is piled in the yards at present.

Big Fire in Breckenridge, Col.

DENVER, December 5.—Breckenridge, Col., was visited by a destructive fire late this evening. Twenty buildings in the heart of the town were burned, among them the Grand Central, Findling & Company, hardware, H. H. Cowins, dry goods; W. H. Woodside, boots and shoes; W. F. Forman's storehouse and dwelling. Newcomb's assay office and Radigan's livery stable. The other property burned was mostly dwellings. The loss is estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000. Insurance unknown.

Fire Record.

LONDON, December 5.—Smalley's cotton mill at Farnsworth, in Lancashire, was totally destroyed by fire to-day. Loss, estimated at $200,000.
Dover, N. H., December 5.—Later reports from Stratford show the explosion was caused by a battery which it was thought would not work. Eight persons in the house were either killed or injured. The ruins took fire and none dared approach fearing further explosions.

British Grain Markets.

LIVERPOOL, December 5.—The leading weekly grain circular says wheat is still firm and most of the market is one shilling per quarter dearer for both English and foreign. The demand for consumers has improved markedly. Cargoes are in fair request at full rates, both for the United Kingdom and the continent. At today's market there was a fair attendance. Wheat was steady and moderate business was done. There was a good home demand for flour at full rates.

The Franchise Bill.

LONDON, December 5.—The franchise bill was read the third time in the House of Lords, this afternoon, and was subsequently passed by that body.

The Hope of the Nation.

A Great Discovery.

Mr. Wm. Thomas, of Newton, Ia., says: "My wife has been seriously affected with a cough for twenty-five years, and this spring more severely than ever before. She had used many remedies without relief, and being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery, did so, with most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved her very much, and the second bottle has absolutely cured her. She has not had so good health for thirty years."

Free Trial Bottles of this certain cure of all Throat and Lung Diseases at Z. C. M. T. Drug Store. Large Bottles $1.

Startling and Terrible.

To the ear of affection is the sound of a dry, metallic cough, that seems as if a rattle were sprung in the chest of the beloved one. Haste to loosen it with Hale's Honey of Wildcherry and Tar, the new medicinal agent, which is admitted to be the best remedy for pulmonary complaints at present known. The cure is accomplished, and the family and delight the people. All druggists keep it. Price 25c., 50c., and $1. Great saving to buy large size. Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

AT IT AGAIN.

Springer's Committee Finds More Work to Do.

WASHINGTON, December 5.—At a meeting of the committee on expenditures in the department of justice to-day, Chairman Springer read a letter from J. J. Barker, a former treasury clerk, reiterating the charges made by him some time ago against the management of the office of the first comptroller of the treasury department. In explanation of the charges, Barker said he alleged the attention of the comptroller to what he considered illegal allowances of per diem. He said he had written a decision on this same subject. I told him his decision had not reached the fourth door of his office. The comptroller told me one bill for per diem was outrageous and should not be allowed, but it was allowed. In other cases, I objected to the payment of claims as illegal, but they were allowed. I called the attention of the chief of the division to certain irregular vouchers, and he replied that they were none of our business. There were other accounts for $11,000 that were the result of the star route trials. I told the comptroller they were illegal. He said he had signed them without an examination of the committee expenditure. I told him he could not afford to sign them, he replied that he could afford to because he had already done so. I think the attorney-general influenced the comptroller to allow the $11,000. I went to the chairman of this committee and to Senators Van Wyck and Harrison, and attempted to have these things corrected, but I found every obstacle thrown in my way. Referring to the first comptroller, Barker said: I believe Judge Lawrence to be honest, but he is so exclusively engaged in the production of his decisions, that he has not time to attend to the details of his office. Before adjournment, the committee directed the chairman to appoint a subcommittee to investigate the matters referred to by Barker. A resolution was adopted requesting the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish the committee copies of all vouchers on file in the treasury department concerning payments to United States Marshal Wright and other court officials of the southern district of Ohio, for general and special deputy marshals, for the Congressional election in October, and for a statement of the amounts allowed and paid on account of their services. A resolution was also adopted, directing the chairman to request the Attorney-General to furnish the committee with copies of all correspondence between his department and United States Marshal Wright in reference to the employment of United States deputy marshals at the same election.

Compensation of Court Officials.

WASHINGTON, December 5.—The changing of the system of compensating United States court officials was discussed by the House committee on expenditures in the Department of Justice to-day. The chairman said he had been informed that Senators were opposed to any bill proposing the change which was inserted in the appropriation bill, but they would favor a measure, if introduced in the House, that had for its object only changing the fee for the salary system. Representative Springer, on the third Monday in January, will probably introduce the bill prepared by his committee at the last session of Congress, and ask its passage under a suspension of the rules.

Another Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 5.—The Chronicle's Prescott, Arizona, special says: Judge Howard, to-day, sentenced the convicted polygamists, Ammon M. Tenny, Bishop P. J. Christofferson, and C. I. Kemp, each to pay $500 and be imprisoned three and a half years in the United States house of correction at Detroit, Michigan. Much sympathy is expressed for Kemp. He leaves two wives and twelve children in destitute circumstances. He desired to plead guilty, but was prevented, under pain of excommunication from the Mormon church. The sentences of Bishops J. Flake and James F. Skonens, were each fined $500 and six months' confinement in Yuma penitentiary.

The Orient.

PARIS, December 5.—Le Temps says the French government would hail with delight the threatened attack of the Chinese men-of-war upon General Courbet's fleet, as it would break the monopoly of the blockade of Formosa. The King of Burmah, against the advice of his minister, has employed a French company to manufacture firearms, at Mandalay.

Sentencing Rioters.

DUBLIN, December 5.—Ten Nationalists and six Orangemen have been sentenced to imprisonment, from one to three months each, for participating in the recent riots at Coal Island.

Against Sunday Traveling.

HARTFORD, December 5.—A large number of Connecticut clergymen advocated, before the railroad commissioners, to-day, the restriction of Sunday traffic on railroads.

Very Busy.

MONTREAL, December 5.—President-elect Cleveland declined an invitation to attend the carnival, owing to the pressure of business.

Cataract of the Bladder.

SECRETARY CHANDLER.

His Report on the Navy and the New Ships.

WASHINGTON, December 5.—The annual report of the Secretary of the Navy is made public to-day. Secretary Chandler says three new ships have been successfully launched, and it has been shown that our steel makers can readily furnish excellent material in large quantities. Its high quality is assured by the tests adopted. The department is confirmed in the opinion that the criticisms advanced last year against the new ships were of little moment, or based upon theories at variance with the progress of modern shipbuilding. The comparisons of speed between the new cruisers and the great trans-Atlantic racing steamers are unfair, because the latter attain their speed only by a sacrifice of the qualities essential to ships of war. They are unprotected, unarmored and of enormous draft and dimensions. In a number of them the pressure of very high speed is small and the new cruisers could average 95 per cent. of the merchant steamers of the world. The rates of speed assigned the new ships are based on very conservative calculations of their probable performance, and they will undoubtedly exceed the estimates. But the first armored cruisers of the new American fleet are not intended for comparison with the unprotected racing steamers of enormous size, or in defensive power with the modern iron-clads. The department, in adopting the recommendations of the advisory board for additional new vessels, calls special attention to the necessity for torpedo boats. In general, the secretary recommends the construction of seven modern cruisers annually for a period of ten years. Such a plan, he says, while conforming to the conservative demands of our national policy, and affording ample time for adopting every new device in construction, would give the country, at a moderate cost, a navy adequate to train its officers and maintain its safety and honor. In regard to the existing navy, Secretary Chandler says: "It appears, from the condition of the fleet, that at the end of fifteen years the only existing vessels will be three small iron vessels, the Albatross, Albatross, and Albatross. The great expense of the reconstruction of the fleet, and the necessity of maintaining it, are terms easily interchangeable, and published statements of expenditures under the first name, during many years, show it is only too apt to mean the second. The bureau is unrestricted in the expenditures for repairs, except by the gross amount of their annual appropriation. The practice of reconstructing vessels under the name of repairs is only a pretext upon which our overgrown navy yard establishments could be justified, and it appears, instead of making our yards for the advantage and benefit of our ships, ships have dragged out a protracted existence for the benefit of the yards."

Concerning the navy yards, the Secretary holds that only two navy workshops should be maintained, one on the Atlantic and one on the Pacific. The New London yard should be restored to Connecticut, and the League Island yard to Philadelphia; the Boston yard should be sold or reduced in size; the Pensacola and Portsmouth yards may be kept for naval stations. The work-shops would then be at New York, Norfolk and Mare Island. These need certain improvements in organization. First of all, politics should be excluded from their management; secondly, the responsibility for work must be more definitely fixed.

The Secretary reports the arrival from Siberia of the body of Lieutenant-Commander Delong, of the Jeanette, and his companions, and gives a history of the Greely relief expedition expenditures, for which there was $762,998. In the preparation of the expedition there was no omission or misapprehension, and its success reflected high honor and credit upon the American navy.

The gun foundry board was reconvened to April, to decide on full plans and estimates to carry out its recommendations. It has obtained information that there are no responsible steel manufacturers in this country, who, although not provided at present with the necessary plant, are willing to construct the same and make bids for contracts with the government for the supply of material for the heaviest guns, if guaranteed orders of sufficient magnitude with the appropriations covered by a series of years, shall be made by Congress.

Secretary Chandler next details the facts in connection with the frauds in the bureau of medicine and surgery. The amount of the suspected vouchers is $124,855, extending over a period from 1878 to 1884. The Surgeon-General neglected to require the customary evidence that goods had been received. The frauds were made easier by the frequent use of the exigency clause, under which purchases are made without advertising.

The expenditures of the department for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1884, were $17,292,601; the estimates for ordinary purposes and public work for the next fiscal year are $17,869,388; and the estimates for the increase of revenue are $15,071,592. Of this latter sum, about one-half would be needed the coming fiscal year.

The Secretary comments severely upon the existing practice of securing the solicitations of persons possessed of political or social influence in behalf of officers, whether for the purpose of obtaining agreeable duty, or effecting the restoration, by legislation, of those who have been dismissed for drunkenness or other misconduct, or for incapacity. He says that such restorations demoralize the service. Public opinion should be sternly condemn all who have been guilty of misconduct, as well as those who lend themselves to the efforts for the restoration of officers removed. In discussing this subject, he refers to the President's Porter bill, as sage on the Fitz-John Porter bill, as pointing out the unconstitutionality of such legislation, and showing that the Constitution has provided an effectual barrier to any restoration by legislation of particular officers.

In conclusion, Secretary Chandler dwells upon the close connection between the improvement and development of the merchant marine, and shows that to make the latter commensurate with our trade, our coast line and numbers and wealth of our commercial cities, we must have great lines of ocean steamships, of high speed and large carrying capacity, carrying our flag to the most distant lands and saving to our people the vast profits of the carrying trade. The only way to accomplish this result, he says, is through direct encouragement, given by government, either in the form of bounties upon construction or payment for carrying mail, so that American capitalists will be induced to embark in the business. The recent enactment repealing the laws requiring all American vessels arbitrarily to carry foreign mails, he says, should be supplemented by a provision that contracts for the carrying of such mails on the American lines of steamers, over all principal ocean highways, should be let for terms of years to the lowest bidder, adequate compensation therefor to be paid by the government, upon the same principle as that adopted in establishing our great national post routes on land.

Electric Light Photography.

Photographing at night is something new under the moon. Mr. Newcomb has placed an electric lantern in his gallery, and last night was experimenting in photography with the new light. Several pictures were taken, and most successfully, equaling in clearness and distinctness the photos by sunlight. Not only can the negatives be secured by the electric light but the printing is done by the same agency. One of these days man is liable to declare himself independent of nature, and set up in business entirely on his own heels, changing and reversing natural laws and rules to suit his own convenience. Mr. Newcomb's pictures are curiosities that will attract the attention of the inquisitive.

An Operatic Event.

For several weeks past there has been under preparation one of the finest entertainments of the season, and will be produced at the Twentieth Ward Schoolhouse, on Tuesday evening, December 9, 1884. The principal feature—the opera, Trilby by J. H. B. has been revised and "localized" to a high degree by the introduction of many well-known characters, and many successful hits on local points of prominence. The performance will open with a grand olio, in which Prof. J. J. Davies, Josiah Burrows, James Crawford, Mrs. Annie Murphy, Miss Ella Dunbar and others will appear, with quartettes, recitations, songs and music. Part second will be utilized by the Twentieth Ward Harmonica Band, which has been trained specially for this occasion. Part third will be the great hit of the season. This version of Trilby by J. H. B. will scarcely be recognized as the same, as it will carry the local administration of the law into high repute. The worthy object of the entertainment, to raise money in the interest of the Twentieth Ward meeting-house fund, ought certainly to insure a crowded house.

"You Git!"—"You Bet."

A day or two ago an amusing example of this brief dialogue occurred in the Sixteenth Ward, and exhibited on the part of the party of the first part commendable grit and on the part of the second the predominance of quality of his species. The circumstances are: One of those specimens of "no count" humanity, commonly termed tramp, called at the residence of a citizen in the ward hereinbefore indicated, and addressed the young female occupant with:

"Gimme a drink o' water, will ye?" While the lady was obtaining for him the required liquid, he espied some food upon the table, and at once began handling some of it, turning it over and examining it around, and insisted upon partaking of the family repast. But the heroine of the incident insisted that he should do no such thing, and ordered him off.

"Shan't do it." Hereupon the father of the girl, an aged and infirm gentleman, entered, and learning the state of affairs, politely told the intruder to slope, git, leave. Still, the fellow would not go, and as he was about to gobble down some of the eatables set out, the girl reached into a drawer close by, drew forth her brother's revolver and pointed it at the audacious good-for-nothing, gently breathing forth the words:

"Now you get out." The tramp turned blue, then red, then white and then around, spluttered and muttered that he hadn't done anything, and shot through the opening left by the builder, not daring to look around. He dreaded lead poisoning.

ANOTHER THEFT.

John Hepworth, the Butcher, Robbed of $30 in Silver.

Evidences are daily multiplying that the season of burglary, robbery, petty thefts, etc., has now fairly opened. The latest instance that comes under our notice, is that of John Hepworth, butcher, whose stand is a few doors north of the Cliff House. Mr. Hepworth brought up from his house on Thursday morning a little sack containing $30 in silver, which he deposited in his till pending the appearance of the creditor for whom it was designed. Mr. Hepworth went home to lunch near 12 o'clock, leaving the shop in charge of his son John. John was soon after solicited to come out into the road to look at a pig which a vendor was offering for sale. The hog was purchased and John returned to the drawer for the purpose of making payment for the pig. Opening the till, he found that the sack of silver had disappeared. Some one acquainted with the shop, and with the customs of the butchers, had evidently been awaiting this opportunity, and when Mr. Hepworth, Jr., was out of the shop, the thief had slipped in, taken the bag and escaped. No suspicion is attached to any one and no complaint has been made at police headquarters.

Among the exquisite selections to be rendered on Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, one of the numbers deserves especial mention, and that is "The Fireman's Polka."
